ANNCR: You ever get the mumps? It sucks. The aches, fever, and those swollen glands. But you're thinking, "What is this? 18-12? Who gets mumps?"

Well, a few cases have popped up right here in the Capital Health region, this year. Mumps can actually be pretty serious — it can lead to meningitis, deafness, and, uh, sterility. Yeah. Capital Health is running a free immunization program for young adults who haven't had mumps, or haven't received a second dose of mumps vaccine since they turned 18. For more info, call Capital Health Link at 4-oh-8-LINK , or visit Capital-Health-dot-C-A.
